

“I am looking forward to visiting a country which has proven so resilient and determined to create peace after a devastating past.”

Abena Amoako-Tuffour

Abena Amoako-Tuffour is from Antigonish, and is a graduate from St. Francis Xavier University. She earned her Masters in Environment and Sustainability from the University of Western Ontario.

Abena is looking forward to visiting Rwanda, a country which has proven so resilient and determined to create peace after a devastating past. She has heard much of the beauty of Rwanda’s people and its landscape and is looking forward to seeing the land of a thousand hills for herself. She also looks forward to learning Kinyarwanda.

Abena will be working in Rwanda with the Youth Association for the Promotion of Human Rights Development( AJPRODHO). AJPRODHO is committed to empowering youth for human rights respect and advocating for their socio-economic betterment. As Governance Program Assistant, Abena will be doing advocacy work in the area of human rights, including gender and youth issues. She will be doing research, proposal writing, fund-raising and will also assist in strengthening AJPRODOHO’s monitoring and evaluation capacities.
