

“I’ve always dreamed of going to Africa and I am beyond excited to have the opportunity to work in the development field and make a positive impact, however small or large it might be.”

Mark Carras

Mark Carras is a 22 year old Fall River, Nova Scotia native and has a bachelor’s degree in business administration from St. Francis Xavier University. Mark has a strong background in youth leadership and is looking forward to connecting with youth from a foreign culture, developing an international social network and learning Botswana’s native language, Setswana.

Mark is going to be traveling to Gaborone, the capital of Botswana, a country in Sub-Saharan Africa. He will be working to help raise funds for the continued and expanding operations of the Holy Cross Hospice, a non governmental organization that gives support to families and patients living with HIV/AIDS.
